NASA Task Load Index (NASA-TLX)

Participant code: _____ Session: ____ Task: ____ Date: _____

Each of the six scales below asks a single question, and you give a single answer: one clear vertical mark (X or |) on the line. The line runs from 0 to 100; the small ticks are steps of 5. The sentence in italics under each question is guidance to help you understand it - not a separate question. Note that the Performance scale runs the other way: the left end means you feel you did very well, the right end very poorly. Consider the whole task, from when it began to when it ended. There are no right or wrong answers.

1. Mental Demand

Question: How mentally demanding was the task?

Guidance: this asks about mental activity such as thinking, deciding, remembering, concentrating, and searching - from easy and simple through to demanding and complex.

Very Low Very High

2. Physical Demand

Question: How physically demanding was the task?

Guidance: this asks about physical activity such as pressing keys, moving, or holding a posture - from physically easy and restful through to strenuous and laborious.

Very Low Very High

3. Temporal Demand

Question: How hurried or rushed was the pace of the task?

Guidance: this asks about time pressure from the rate or pace at which the task proceeded - from slow and leisurely through to rapid and frantic.

Very Low Very High

4. Performance

Question: How successful were you in accomplishing what you were asked to do?

Guidance: this asks how satisfied you were with your own performance. Note this scale runs the other way: the left end (0) means you feel you did very well, the right end (100) very poorly.

Perfect Failure

5. Effort

Question: How hard did you have to work to accomplish your level of performance?

Guidance: consider both mental and physical effort - how hard you were working, regardless of how well things turned out.

Very Low Very High

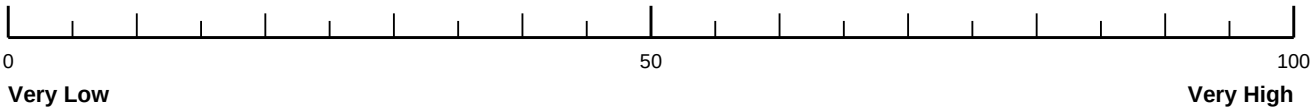
Participant code: _____ (continued)

6. Frustration

Question: How insecure, discouraged, irritated, stressed, or annoyed were you during the task?

Guidance: the left end means you felt secure, content, relaxed, and untroubled; the right end means you felt stressed, irritated, or discouraged.



Thank you. Please let the researcher know when you have finished.